SAT test : Saturday 1st May 2010

As I am sure you are all well aware, this school runs SAT Maths classes every Monday from 3:30 pm until 5:00 pm. Students attending these classes can make use of the "Sports Buses" that run every evening at 5:00 pm from school. One bus goes up the mountain and one bus goes down. These buses only drop off at main intersections, they do NOT drop off students at their houses.

Normally these SAT Maths sessions are free. However, I have noticed that the first two sessions are always full to overflowing and then the numbers drop off quickly as students seem to think it is easier to do it alone. It is not. SAT exams can be difficult and I believe students need all the help they can get, that is why I spend one and a half hours every Monday teaching this course. Normal commercial courses can cost upwards of 200$.

The revision sessions for the May exam, which is primarily directed at "special" students from Class 9, all Class 10 and "normal" Class 11 students, will be run slightly differently. Seven dates have been set aside for revision. To book a place at the sessions students will need to purchase a ticket from the Senior Administration for 50,000 LL. If they attend at least 6 of the 7 sessions, the 50,000 LL will be returned to them at the end of the revision period. If they do NOT attend 6 of the 7 classes, we will keep the 50,000 LL to cover expenses of the teacher. One way to look at the 50,000 LL is as a deposit that is returned at the end of the course, if 6 of the 7 sessions have been attended.

This means, I hope, that students will not treat the SAT session in the light way that they have been.

Sessions are scheduled for the following dates (all Mondays) :

1. February 22nd 2010
2. March 1st 2010
3. March 8th 2010
4. March 15th 2010
5. March 22nd 2010
6. March 29th 2010
7. April 26th 2010
